MINING WRITER IS IMPRESSED WITH NEW CAMP

Palmetto is Name of District Located 15 Miles South of Silver Peak

(By James T. Keenan) PALMETTO, Dec. 10.—The spot of miners in the hands of all prospectors operators and buyers of Nye and Esmeralda counties is Palmetto, which is situated in the Palmetto range about 15 miles southwest from Silver Peak, Esmeralda county, Nevada. The new camp is rightly named Palmetto. Palmetto gold is Harry Stander, the original locator of Goldfield, the discoverer and owner of the new strike. A week ago there was only a wickup constructed of sods and poles on the site of the camp, but at present there are six separate camps, and many more will dot these mountain hills within a short time.

That indefinable feeling of waiting gold in the past is the reason so much interest being taken in the new find. Assays from the new strike have an average run of $88 in the surface and as deep as the work is done it has a tendency to show that values become richer at depth. The values are free from the heavy iron-bearing masses and prospectors.

The much sought for and desired yellow metal gold is the magnet which attracts men to the hills, and with the facts in view that the famous Ophir canyon is two miles distant, where float as saying $27,000 per ton was found, and that values can be found in all the gulches within four miles of Palmetto, one must respect the fact that this new find is in a belt of buried wealth.

Mr. Stander has a crew of men working on the find and as explorations progress indications are the new property and adjacent properties will be winners. Many well known and conservative lenders have made application for leasing privileges and some six or seven are to start operations this week.

Mr. O'Halloran plans to have his family join him here shortly. G. H. CLEVELAND, metallurgist, returned to Manhattan from being employed for many years during the early history of Randolung and Adolla. Each and every prospector passed up the silver belt in their eagerness for speed and gold. Likewise with the Palmetto range, it has been passed up for reason that many seemed to be of the opinion that it was a shallow stringer district.

In my rambles through the hills I have seen some well defined ledges and contacts. My campmate has located on a ledge four feet in width and in place between two walls of granite. This ledge pans, colors and assays $6.50.

Many of the mining fraternity are under the impression that when anything is said or written relative to a new find, that all is said or written in an optimistic and overrating vein, but, however, truth has been associated with mining ventures, and truth is going to be the fundamental principles of all future mining ventures. Believe me, truth predominates when I say Palmetto possesses merit, promise and the much desired metal gold. Rest assured, the next best bet in Nevada's gold camps, will be Palmetto, in Esmeralda county. We, of Nye and Esmeralda counties cannot afford to doubt any assertion, said or written, relative to the mineral wealth of the two counties. The soap of country, the past production, and last, but not least, the many miles of mountains and desert, proves that all the mines have not been found, but however, I will say, that a real mine has been found in the Gold Queen at Palmetto and more mines are surely waiting for the searching eyes of the prospectors to unearth.

AMUSEMENTS

BEBE DANIELS IN AN INTERESTING PICTURE

"Pink Gods" is the name of an interesting Paramount picture which will be shown at the Butler today. The scenes are laid in South Africa, and the picture is based on Cynthia Stockley's novel, "Pink Gods and Blue Demons." The author is thoroughly familiar with the great diamond mines for the story is a wealth of picturesque detail. Bebe Daniels is excellent as the leading woman in the part of Beronnie Temple, who makes good the temptation to lock herself with fine jewelry. A strange fascination that not only controls her but also brings about a series of thrilling adventures. James Kirkwood is leading man, and Anna Nelson and Raymond Hatton have important roles. Added to the program, Topics of the Day and Acts, Fables, Tomorrow, William Farnum in "Moonshine Valley," with just the kind of a role in which you like to see him, also Johnny Hines in "Topsy's Promotion."
